Salisbury, September 5, 1933.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board and Citizens:

The enlarging of the Supervisory Union to include seven school districts and reducing my office clerk to half-time has changed considerably the scope of my work. I am less familiar with the financial aspects of the situation and with the general administration of the affairs of the district.

At the time of the last district meeting it was thought likely that a school would be opened at the Mills on the following September, but because of a change in the school population there and some apparent changes in sentiment among the people there the school was not opened.

Salisbury children are indeed fortunate that we have been able to retain teachers of such education and ability at the same low salary as last year. In the seven districts in this union the average salary paid to elementary teachers is as follows: Penacook, $1,048; Warner, $925; Boscawen, $825; Canterbury, $818; Webster, $800; Bow, $780; Salisbury, $650. Among the thirty-three elementary teachers in these seven towns one with short experience is receiving $650 in a small school and one in a school of six pupils is receiving $600, but no teacher in a school as large as yours is receiving less than $800. As soon as business conditions show permanent improvement one cannot hope that the salary now paid can command the services of any teachers except those at the foot of the list of available candidates, and those are certainly not likely to be satisfactory in schools as large as yours, if in any school. I urge that the district support a budget that will make it possible to pay larger salaries next year.

During the year 1932-33 expenditures for text books were held down to the minimum. It has been necessary to spend more during the current year.

Little has been expended on repairs and upkeep during the past eighteen months. Of course the ordinary wear of daily use is bound to pile up a large bill in the near future.

Only four children were graduated from the schools last June. With a much larger eighth grade this year it seems probable that the cost of high school tuition will be increased.

The most important factor in the success of a school is, of course, the teacher, not merely his education and training or his teaching ability, but his sympathetic understanding of the needs of children, their desires and aptitudes, their aspirations, temptations, discouragements and partial failures. Possibly next in importance comes a group of parents whose confidence he can count on, a community whose criticism is kindly, not expecting the impossible or magnifying small errors. Last, and possibly least, comes the contribution of a superintendent and school board on whose strong support he can rely, whose help he can secure when needed, and who will leave him, as far as possible, to work out his own problems in his own way.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE W. SUMNER.
